This unique travel study course provides selected second-, third-, and fourth-year students the opportunity to experience the Irish culture and legal system through travel study to that country. This represents a remarkably accessible opportunity to gain substantive comparative knowledge of Ireland – the subject of the first extension of England’s common law legal system outside Great Britain, as well as the home of one of Europe’s oldest legal traditions, the Brehon law. The course includes guest lectures by law professors, judges, and lawyers in Ireland. It also includes historical “walking lectures” to the sites of some of the most important events in Irish history. The travel portion will include stays in Belfast, Galway, Kerry, Cork, and Dublin, as well as visits to academic, governmental, and legal institutions. Grading will be based on a written essay to be accomplished upon return.

Eligible Students
Currently enrolled and matriculated St. John’s University School of Law 2L, 3L and 4L J.D. students who are in good academic standing may apply for the Dean’s Travel Study Program. Should a student be selected for the program and, prior to commencement of the program, lose their good academic standing, they will not be allowed to participate in the program and an alternate will take their place. Students must have a valid passport.
