

Mental Health and Self-Care Tools and Resources

There are a wealth of mental health and self-care resources to support you and your loved ones on your journey of self-discovery and well-being. The examples included here are intended to be a helpful starting point.

Support and Education: Learn More to Reduce Stigma

Mental Health Conditions

One in five US adults experiences mental illness each year. Odds are you or someone you care about has a mental health condition. Help yourself or your loved one by educating yourself on the condition, learn the signs, symptoms, causes, treatment options and supportive resources.

PsychCentral

PsychCentral is a clearinghouse of expert advice and credible information intended to help you explore your mental health and feel less alone in your journey of self-discovery. The site provides overviews and self-assessments for a number of mental health conditions, as well as timely articles on everything from “What Does a Panic Attack Feel Like,” to “Tips for Living with ADHD,” to “The Top 10 Free Mental Health Apps in 2021.”

Screening Tools

Mental Health Screening Tools

Online screening is a quick, free, and anonymous way to learn about your mental health and if you are experiencing symptoms of a mental health condition. A screening only takes a few minutes, and after you are finished you will be given information about the next steps you should take based on the results. A screening is not a diagnosis, but it can be a helpful tool for starting a conversation with your doctor or a loved one about your mental health.

Mental Health America (MHA) offers screening tools for depression (English/Spanish), anxiety (English/Spanish), PTSD, bipolar, postpartum depression, psychosis, eating disorders, addiction, and work health.

DIY Worksheets

Dealing with the Worst-Case Scenario

Going to the worst-case scenario is one of the most common thinking traps we fall into. This pattern of thinking can result in ruminating in ways that pull you into a rut, bring your feelings down, make depression worse, cause you to avoid your responsibilities, and increase anxiety. Use this worksheet to reality test and find healthier thoughts.

Managing Frustration and Anger

Anger and frustration are both common emotional responses that everyone faces. However, if these feelings become too intense, they can lead to both mental and physical distress, and cause problems in relationships. This worksheet can help you identify the emotions and thoughts behind your anger and frustration, and help you determine what you need to feel better.

Physical Symptoms and Feelings Tracker

Your mental and physical health are strongly linked. This worksheet will help you to track your physical symptoms as well as the emotions and situations you experience each day. Seeing these things side by side may help you to notice patterns and find triggers to avoid in the future.

Practicing Radical Acceptance

Radical acceptance is a practice that helps us evaluate situations and work to reduce the emotional burden of the reality of the situation like resentment, anger, hatred, or shame. This worksheet includes prompts to help you practice radical acceptance

Prioritizing Self-Care

When we have a lot on our plates or we are facing mental health challenges, it can feel easy to push our own needs to the side. However, making time for ourselves is essential to our overall well-being. Use this worksheet to help you better understand what is holding you back from taking time for yourself and your needs.

Processing Trauma and Stress

After a traumatic experience, it can be helpful to get your thoughts outside of your head. Use this worksheet to write down your experiences and gain perspective about your situation.

Staying Grounded

Do you feel like your mind is constantly racing through a million thoughts, thinking about the past, the future, or all the things that went wrong or could go wrong.? This worksheet is designed to help you calm down and retrain your body and mind to stay grounded in the moment. The more you practice, the faster you'll notice your body and brain responding well.

Stopping Stupid Thoughts
