The Choice Is Yours

If you have decided to begin your legal education but have significant professional or personal responsibilities, you owe it to yourself to explore the evening program at St. John’s Law. Our evening program offers you the opportunity to earn your law degree in four years of part-time study with the same quality as in the full-time day program. Many of our evening students hold full-time jobs during their law school years, while others have parenting or other commitments that make part-time study their best option.

A St. John’s J.D. opens doors because of the excellence of our academic programs, the abundance of experiential learning alternatives and our renowned alumni network. Take advantage of our evening program to earn your degree – on a schedule that works for you.

It is the policy of St. John’s School of Law not to discriminate in its educational programs, admissions policies, financial aid programs, employment practices and other School-sponsored activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital or parental status, national or ethnic origin, age or disability.

Evening Program

More at: www.law.stjohns.edu
We are committed to ensuring that our evening students receive the same high-quality, rigorous legal education as their day counterparts. Faculty policy makes themselves available at convenient times so that you can benefit from their attention and guidance. Our academic centers schedule many of their events between day and evening classes in order to give all law students the chance to meet with distinguished speakers and guests. Evening students participate in our clinical, most court and trial advocacy programs. They are active in on-campus organizations and have demonstrated leadership roles that include editor-in-chief of the St. John’s Law Review and president of the Student Bar Association.

"We are committed to ensuring that our evening students receive the same high-quality, rigorous legal education as their day counterparts. Faculty policy requires that, to the extent feasible, all required and core courses, day or evening, are to be taught by full-time faculty. As a result, I have been privileged to offer the 'Torts' course in the evening program for many years." — Andrew J. Simons, Vice Dean Emeritus
