St. John’s University:
Graduate School of Education

About Us:
• Founded in 1870, St. John’s is a Catholic University committed to academic excellence and the pursuit of wisdom in the Vincentian tradition. St. John’s is a Metropolitan university benefitting and serving the diversity of New York City.
• St. John’s Graduate School of Education has been in existence since 1908 and is committed to providing programs for the intellectual, professional and moral development of students within a vibrant learning environment. We prepare you to be competent in your subject area equipped with the pedagogical knowledge, understanding and skills necessary to meet rising academic standard for students, teachers, administrators and counselors.
• With four convenient locations (Queens, Staten Island, Oakdale, Manhattan) and numerous online and hybrid courses, and dual certification programs, as well as our innovative career change and alternate certification programs, we continue to prepare students for professional teaching, administration and counseling positions at all levels of education.

Recognition:
• Our Teacher Education Program holds TEAC accreditation. Our Educational Administration Program is in the process of seeking TEAC accreditation.
• We are ranked in the top 10% of graduate schools of education in US News and World Report.
• In the U.S. News and World Report national survey of on-line graduate education programs, St. John’s School Building Leadership and Special Education distance learning programs were ranked 7th out of 156 schools in teaching practices and student engagement.
• In 2011, the New York City Teaching Fellows instituted a new program and chose us as the only program provider.
• Recognized for its commitment to assisting communities and people in need, St. John’s was admitted with distinction to the 2012 President of the United States’ Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll.

Our Faculty:
• Our faculty are internationally and nationally renowned in their fields as both teachers and researchers.
• Our faculty have developed materials for “Sesame Street”, “The Reading Revolution” and other educational TV programs.
• Our faculty hold leadership positions on numerous boards and in professional organizations.

Our Programs:
• Ph.D. in Literacy
• Ed.D. in Administration and Supervision as well as in Instructional Leadership
• M.S.Ed and/or Advanced Certificates in early childhood, childhood, middle school adolescent, special education, literacy, counseling, administration, Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages, Instructional Leadership, gifted and bilingual education, as well as several combined degree programs leading to dual certification.
• We offer a number of programs that can be completed totally on line.
• We offer a career change program that can qualify you for a full-salaried teaching position within one year, even if you attend part-time.
• We prepare our students for where the jobs are.
• Our robust study abroad program aligns itself with populations that our teachers serve.

Our Students/Alumni:
• We have approximately 1500 students in the Graduate School of Education.
• Our students have opportunities for assistantships, for international field study and for research work with our faculty.
• Our alumni achieve a 97% pass rate on State Certification Exams.
• Our alumni hold positions as Superintendents, Principals, Department Directors, Teachers, Counselors and Administrators and frequently serve as Consultants and Keynote Speakers.

For more information, please visit our website:  http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/graduate/education or email graded@stjohns.edu or call (718) 990-2304.