

Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies (WGSS)

Fall 2022 Courses

In-person, Queens

ANT 1110 Kinship, Family and Gender, TF 1350-1515: Anthropological approach to the study of kinship, family, and gender cross-culturally through classical and contemporary texts

ANT/SOC [course number pending] Gender and Cultures Around the World: Study gender as a historically and culturally created construct and global gender structures and practices of inequality

ENG 3260 Women Writers of the Nineteenth Century, MR 1040-1205:

Nineteenth-century literature written by women—novels, poetry, social criticism, drama, and other forms of non-fiction prose—in their political and cultural contexts

ENG 3710 Creative Writing Across Genres, MR 1525-1650: Explore modes and genres of creative writing: poetry, poet's theater, flash fiction, and memoir; collaborate and play writing games

HIS 3140 History of Sexuality, MR 1525-1650: What is the history of sexuality and how might it reshape and broaden our understanding of social, political, and cultural history? Focusing on modern history.

SOC 1150 Sociology of the Family, TF 1350-1515: Examine the institution of marriage and the family

SOC 1170 Inequality: Race, Class, and Gender, MR 1040-1205: Analyze social factors determining class, power, and prestige in American society; poverty and welfare policies; etc.

SOC 2110 Women and Crime, MR 1215-1340: Relationship between women and crime: women as offenders, including the nature and seriousness of offenses and women as victims of crime

In-person, Staten Island

HON/ENG 3570 Women and Literature, MR 1525-1650: Exploration of the categories "women" and "literature," encompassing texts, performances, and media

In-person, Paris

ENG 2300 Black Feminisms [Day/Time TBD] Intro to Black Feminist Theory; study the plurality of past and present thinking about Black feminisms, their expressions and significance; Black feminists in Paris

Online Asynchronous

HON 3240 Women and Theology: The emergence of a theology of women, stressing personhood; Scripture and Christian traditions concerning women, plus a study of present Church and world needs. <Note: This is an Honors course counting as Theology and WGSS credit.>

SOC 2430 Sociology of Gender and Sexualities: Sociology of gender from a global perspective; focusing on gender issues worldwide; bringing regional and cultural differences into the analysis

The WGSS Minor is 15 credits (5 courses).

For more info, contact Prof Gansell (gansella@stjohns.edu).

To declare a minor, simply email your name and X-number to sjcug@stjohns.edu

